

The Code of Ethics of the Official of the Georgian Election Administration

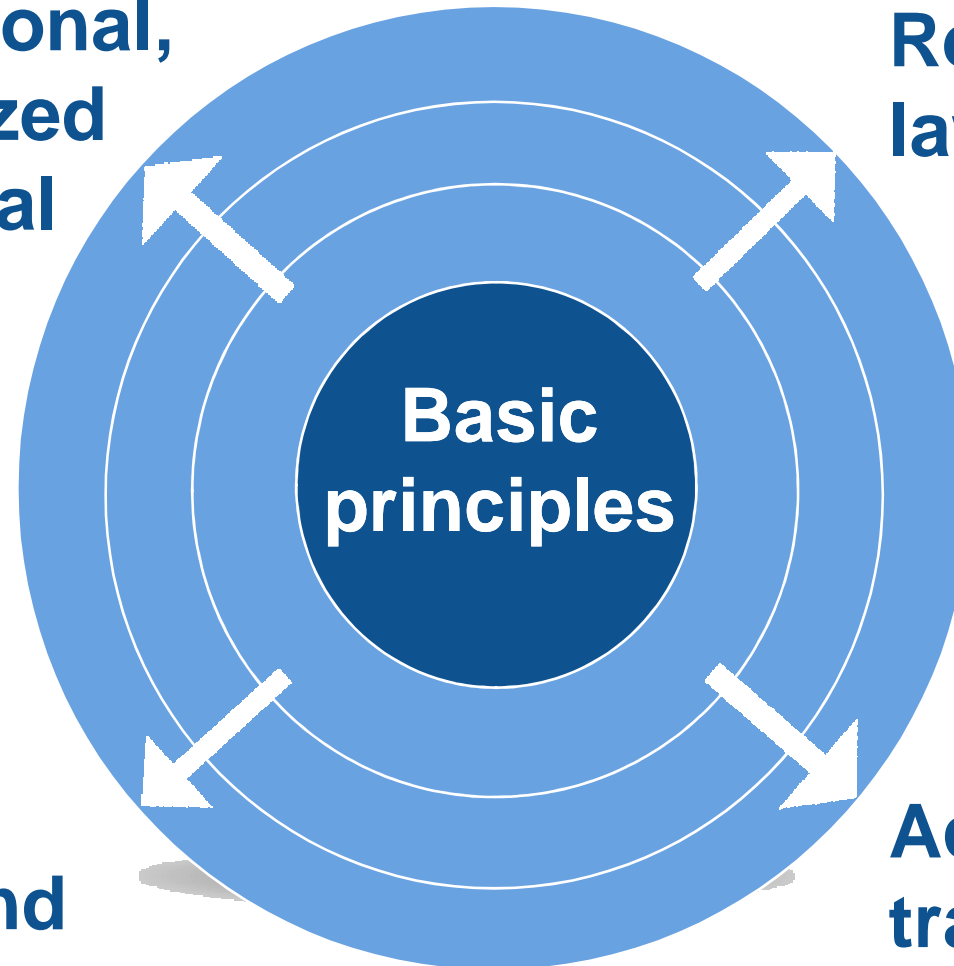

Natia Zaalishvili
Training Centre Director

The Code of Ethics

Be professional, well organized and punctual

Respect the law

Be just, unbiased and independent

Act transparently

Respect the law

Ensure precise and consistent enforcement of the election legislation

Act transparently

Support electoral stakeholders in obtaining information or documents related to the election process or activities of the Election administration

Be just, unbiased and independent

- Ensure creation of just and equal electoral environment
- Avoid actions, which may be perceived as an action against or for the support of any political party
- Reject any presents or benefit offered by a political party
- Within the election period reject invitations to parties, banquets or events organized by political parties
- Within the election period avoid any personal meetings or visits with local or state government authorities
- Submit to the higher Election Commission a written note in case of registration of any of the relatives of a official member

Be professional, well organized and punctual

- Participate in specially held trainings and learn precisely the election procedures
- Not allow usage of professional time and assets for non-professional purposes
- Be communicable and avoid personal or other kind of conflicts
- While articulating own opinion be tactical in expression of justified criticism
- Be punctual and act within the terms set by the law

Sharing Experiences

